VARIATIONS IN THE LAW OF UNJUST ENRICHMENT: DEFENDANTS' 51 JURISDICTION SURVEY

JURISDICTION	Elements of an Unjust Enrichment Claim	Absence of a legal remedy or contract required	Additional indicia of unjustness required.	Privity/direct dealing required	Indirect purchaser claims or class actions limited, rejected, or barred
ALABAMA	"To prevail on a claim of unjust enrichment, the plaintiff must show that the defendant holds money which, in equity and good conscience, belongs to the plaintiff or holds money which was improperly paid to defendant because of mistake or fraud." Avis Rent a Car Sys. v. Heilmann, 876 So. 2d 1111, 1122-23 (Ala. 2003) (quoting Dickinson v. Cosmas Broad. Co., 782 So. 2d 260, 266 (Ala. 2000)).	Yes. "A constructive trust may be found only where a fraud or an inequity demand a result that may not be had at law." Berryman v. Adams, 883 So. 2d 214, 220 (Ala. Civ. App. 2003).	Yes. "In the absence of mistake or misreliance by the donor, or wrongful conduct by the recipient, the recipient may have been enriched, but he is not deemed to have been unjustly enriched." Jordan v. Mitchell, 705 So. 2d 453, 458 (Ala. Civ. App. 1997).	Probably not. "[P]laintiff seeks restitution against all defendants for 'money had and received' (i.e. 'unjust enrichment') . . . 'privity of contract is not necessary to support' a claim of money had and received. 'To support the action for money had and received, it is not an essential factor that there is privity of contract between the litigant parties. The law implies a promise to pay the person rightfully entitled to receive the money.'" Am. Nat'l Red Cross v. ASD Specialty Health Care, Inc., 325 F. Supp. 2d 1322, 1333 (S.D. Ala. 2002) (citing Farmer's Bank & Trust v. Shul & Keilin, 68 So. 363, 365 (1915) and Ala. Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co. v. Ward, 27 So. 2d 710, 713 (1946)).	Class actions rejected for unjust enrichment claims based on mistake of fact or fraud. "Because unjust-enrichment claims are fact specific to each case, this Court has repeatedly held that such claims are unsuitable for class-action treatment." Avis Rent a Car Sys., 876 So. 2d at 1123 (citations omitted); Clepton v. Budget Rent A Car Corp., 197 F.R.D. 502, 509 (N.D. Ala. 2000) (claims "would rise or fall based almost entirely on highly individualized circumstances"). But see Cheminova Am. Corp. v. Corker, 779 So. 2d 1175, 1179 (Ala. 2000) (allowing class certification on a claim of restitution/unjust enrichment not based on mistake of fact or fraud).

ALASKA	"In order to recover for unjust enrichment, a party must show: (1) a benefit conferred upon the defendant by the plaintiff; (2) appreciation by the defendant of such benefit; and (3) acceptance and retention by the defendant of such benefit under such circumstances that it would be inequitable for him to retain it without paying the value thereof." State Dep't of Revenue, Child Support Enforcement Div. v. Wetherlei, 931 P.2d 383, 390 (Alaska 1997).	"Unjust enrichment is an equitable doctrine which ordinarily falls within the trial court's broad discretion." Wetherlei, 931 P.2d at 390, n.11. Unjust enrichment is only available if there is no adequate remedy at law. Peter v. Progressive Corp., No. S-11416, 2006 WL 438658, at *7 (Alaska Feb. 22, 2006).	Yes. "In order to recover, it is not enough that a benefit was conferred on a defendant. Rather, the enrichment to the defendant must be unjust; that is, the defendant must receive a true windfall or something for nothing." Wetherlei, 931 P.2d at 390 n. 13. "Even where a person has conferred a benefit upon another, however, he is entitled to compensation only if it would be just and equitable to require compensation under the circumstances." Sparks v. Gustafson, 750 P.2d 338, 342 (Alaska 1998).	Probably. Nystrom v. Buckhorn Homes, Inc., 778 P.2d 1115, 1125 (Alaska 1989) (holding that contractor was not entitled to application of doctrine of unjust enrichment as contractor lacked contractual privity with vendor).
ARIZONA	The elements of an unjust enrichment claim are "(1) an enrichment; (2) an impoverishment; (3) a connection between the enrichment and the impoverishment; (4) absence of justification for the enrichment and the impoverishment; and (5) an absence of a remedy provided by law." City of Guardian Bank v. Hamlin, 898 P.2d 1005, 1008 (Ariz. Ct. App. 1995).	Yes. City of Guardian Bank, 898 P.2d at 1008.	Yes. "The mere fact that one party confers a benefit on another, however, is not of itself sufficient to require the other to make restitution. Retention of the benefit must be unjust." Pyeatte v. Pyeatte, 661 P.2d 196, 203 (Ariz. Ct. App. 1983).	Probably. United States ex rel. Youngstown Welding & Eng'g Co. v. Travelers Indem. Co., 802 F.2d 1164, 1169 (9th Cir. 1986) (party who is not source of unjust enrichment is not entitled to restitution under Arizona law).	Class actions rejected. Osuna v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., No. C20014319, 2004 WL 3255430, at *7 (Ariz. Super. Ct. Dec. 23, 2004) (finding that a claim of unjust enrichment requires an individualized inquiry as to the elements of the claim and entitles defendant individualized defenses, precluding a finding that common issues predominate or that a class action is the superior method of adjudication).

JURISDICTION	Elements of an Unjust Enrichment Claim	Absence of a legal remedy or contract required	Additional indicia of unjustness required.	Privity/direct dealing required	Indirect purchaser claims or class actions limited, rejected, or barred
ARKANSAS	"To find unjust enrichment, a party must have received something of value, to which he or she is not entitled and which he or she must restore. There must also be some operative act, intent, or situation to make the enrichment unjust and compensable. In short, an action based on unjust enrichment is maintainable where a person has received money or its equivalent under such circumstances that, in equity and good conscience, he or she ought not to retain." Harrell v. Wren, 211 S.W.3d 516, 363 Ark. 107, 117 (Ark. 2005) (internal citations omitted). "[A]lthough unjust enrichment is an equitable cause of action, because it is based on the alleged breach of an implied contract, it may be heard in circuit court and may be heard by a jury." First Nat'l Bank of DeWitt v. Crutches, 203 S.W.3d 88, (Ark. 2005).	Yes. "Normally, when an express contract exists between the parties, unjust enrichment is not available as a means of recovery." Klein v. Arkoma Prod. Co., 73 F.3d 779, 785-86 (8th Cir. 1996) (applying Arkansas law). But see Fite v. Fite, 345 S.W.2d 362, 365 (Ark. 1961) (recognizing that the principle of unjust enrichment has been applied in courts of law, as well as the chancery court).	No. "[U]njust enrichment can occur even in the absence of a wrongful act. . . . An innocent party may be unjustly enriched." Hinkle v. McCaslain, No. CA98-1109, 1999 WL 318029, at *3 (Ark. Ct. App. May 12, 1999).	No. Fite, 345 S.W.2d 362.	"The actual definition of 'unjust enrichment' varies from state to state. Some states do not specify the misconduct necessary to proceed, while others require that the misconduct include dishonesty or fraud Other states only allow a claim of unjust enrichment when no adequate legal remedy exists Many states, but not all, permit an equitable defense of unconscionable. Those states that permit a defense of unconscionable vary significantly in the requirements necessary to establish the defense." In re Prempco, 230 F.R.D. 555, 568 (E.D. Ark. 2005) (denying class certification where "[p]laintiff's failure to present a manageable plan supports the conclusion that multi-state laws render this case unmanageable" (citing Clay v. Am. Tobacco Co., 188 F.R.D. 483, 501 (S.D. Ill. 1999))).

Rptr. 2d 881, 883 (Cal. Ct. App. 2000). "Such a remedy, even when equitable principles are applied, indicates the gist of the claim is legal in nature." Id. at 884.	Probably. "However, as a matter of law, a quasi-contract action for unjust enrichment does not lie where, as here, express binding agreements exist and define the parties' rights." Cal. Med. Ass'n, Inc. v. Aetna U.S. Healthcare of Cal., Inc., 114 Cal. Rptr. 2d 109 (Cal. Ct. App. 2001). But see "Although a claim for unjust enrichment generally is precluded where there is a valid and binding contract covering the subject matter of the dispute, [r]estitution may be awarded in lieu of breach of contract damages when the parties had an express contract, but it was procured by fraud . . . [or] where the defendant obtained a benefit from the plaintiff by fraud." Garamendi v. Altus Fin., S.A., No. CV 99-2829 AHM (CWX), 2005 WL 3609013, at *12 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 21, 2005) (citations omitted).	Yes. "[E]lements for a claim of unjust enrichment: receipt of a benefit and unjust retention of the benefit at the expense of another." Lectrodryer, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d at 883 (emphasis added).	Yes. "However wrong the capture of [defendants] was, it did not entail wrongful conduct inflicted directly by the [defendants] on plaintiffs." Hirsch v. Bank of Am., N.A., Nos. A109276, A109277, A109278, A109281, 2006 WL 182953, at *3 (Cal. Ct. App. Jan. 26, 2006) (disallowing claim of unjust enrichment). But see "[D]octrine of unjust enrichment [is] a theory which can, in some instances, have validity without privilege of relationship." Kossian v. Am. Nat'l Ins. Co., 62 Cal. Rptr. 225, 227 (Cal. Ct. App. 1967). Restitution requires that there be a direct link between the loss complained of and the recovery sought. Mertens v. Hewitt Assocs., 948 F.2d 607, 612 (9th Cir. 1991).

COLORADO	"In Colorado, a plaintiff seeking recovery for unjust enrichment must prove: (1) at plaintiff's expense (2) defendant received a benefit (3) under circumstances that would make it unjust for defendant to retain the benefit without paying." Salzman v. Bachrach , 996 P.2d 1263, 1265-66 (Colo. 2000).	Yes. "In general, a party cannot recover for unjust enrichment by asserting a quasi-contract when an express contract covers the same subject matter because the express contract precludes any implied-in-law contract." Bedard v. Martin , 100 P.3d 584, 592 (Colo. Ct. App. 2004).	Yes. Ciccarelli v. Guar. Bank , 99 P.3d 85, 90 (Colo. Ct. App. 2004) (finding that to prove that an enrichment was unjust, there must be a showing of improper, deceitful, or misleading conduct by the person who received the benefit).	No. "The theory does not require any promise or privity between the parties." Salzman , 996 P.2d at 1265.
CONNECTICUT	"Plaintiffs seeking recovery for unjust enrichment must prove (1) that the defendants were benefited, (2) that the defendants unjustly did not pay the plaintiffs for the benefits, and (3) that the failure of payment was to the plaintiffs' detriment." Harford Whalers Hockey Club v. Uniroyal Goodrich Tire Co. , 649 A.2d 518, 522 (Conn. 1994).	"The lack of a remedy under a contract is a precondition to recovery based on unjust enrichment or quantum meruit." United Coastal Indus. v. Clearheart Constr. Co. , 802 A.2d 901, 906 (Conn. 2002).	Yes. "As we have stated repeatedly, the trier of fact must examine the particular circumstances and the conduct of the parties to determine if the defendant was unjustly enriched to the plaintiff's detriment." Vertex, Inc. v. City of Waterbury , 898 A.2d 178, 193 (Conn. 2006).	Yes. "Absent the conferring of a benefit by the plaintiff directly, no action for unjust enrichment by him is valid." Granito v. IBM , No. X07CV020080440S, 2003 WL 1963161, at *2 (Conn. Super. Ct. Apr. 16, 2003). "Absent the conferring of a benefit by the plaintiff directly, no action for unjust enrichment by him is valid." United Coastal Indus. , 802 A.2d 901.	Class certification rejected. "Our Supreme Court has described the process by which a plaintiff must establish his/her proof burden as a 'highly fact-intensive inquiry.' Thus, such inquiries . . . which will vary from class member to class member are necessarily individualized and make class-wide generalized proof ineffective. The requirements of predominance and superiority are not here demonstrated and certification of the class is denied." Agrella v. Ford Motor Co. , No. X01CV020184712S, 2006 WL 1493823, at *7 (Conn. Super. Ct. May 18, 2006).

DELAWARE	"Unjust enrichment is 'the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience.' The elements of unjust enrichment are: (1) an enrichment, (2) an impoverishment, (3) a relation between the enrichment and the impoverishment, (4) the absence of justification, and (5) the absence of a remedy provided by law." Total Care Physicians, P.A. v. O'Hara, 798 A.2d 1043, 1056 (Del. Super. Ct. 2001).	Yes. Dalton v. Ford Motor Co., No. Civ. A. 00C-09-155WCC, 2002 WL 338081, at *6 (Del. Super. Ct. D.C.	Unjust enrichment occurs when: (1) the plaintiff conferred a benefit on the defendant; (2) the defendant retains the benefit; and (3) under the circumstances, the defendant's retention of the benefit is unjust. News World Commc'ns, Inc. v. Thompson , 878 A.2d 1218, 1222 (D.C. 2005).	The case law in this jurisdiction is mixed. In Fred Ezra v. Pedas , 682 A.2d 173 (D.C. 1996), the Court found that recovery under "so-called quasi-contract theories" for services rendered is only available if there is a "true contract expressing a binding agreement." Id. at 175-176 (emphasis added). But, in contradiction, the Schiff Court found that "there can be no claim for unjust enrichment when an express contract exists between the parties." Schiff v. AARP , 697 A.2d 1193, 1194 (D.C. 1997).	Yes. "[E]very unjust enrichment case is factually unique, for whether there has been unjust enrichment must be determined by the nature of the dealings between the recipient of the benefit and the party seeking restitution, and those dealings will necessarily vary from one case to the next." 4934, Inc. v. D.C. Dep't of Employment Servs. , 605 A.2d 50, 56 (D.C. 1992).	No. See In re Lorazepam & Clorazepate Antitrust Litig. , 295 F. Supp. 2d 30, 50-51 (D.D.C. 2003) (holding that plaintiffs stated claim, even though plaintiffs did not allege a direct relationship) ("A plaintiff alleging an unjust enrichment may be seeking to recover a benefit which he gave directly to the Defendant, or one which was transferred to the Defendant by a third party." (quoting State Farm Gen. Ins. Co. v. Stewart , 681 N.E.2d 625, 633 (1997))).	"[T]he Court finds that presentation of the common law claims on a class basis would raise questions of law that are neither common nor predominant throughout the class and, for this reason, certification must be denied." Schmidt v. Interstate Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n , 74 F.R.D. 423, 429 (D.D.C. 1977).

FLORIDA	"The elements of a cause of action for unjust enrichment are: (1) plaintiff has conferred a benefit on defendant, who has knowledge thereof; (2) defendant voluntarily accepts and retains benefit conferred; and (3) circumstances are such that it would be inequitable for the defendant to retain the benefit without paying the value thereof to the plaintiff." Green v. McNeil Nutritional, LLC, No. 2004-0379, 2005 WL 3388158, at *5 (Fla. Cir. Ct. Nov. 16, 2005) (citations omitted). Fla. Power Corp. v. Schmitt, No. 3:05cv387/RV/EMT, 2006 WL 1835974, *3 (N.D. Fla. June 30, 2006) (quoting Bowleg v. Bowe, 502 So. 2d 71 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1987)).	Yes. "The mere fact that an overpayment of some sort has been demanded and payment made will not support the action." Hall v. Humana Hosp. Daytona Beach, 686 So. 2d 653, 656 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1996).	The law is mixed on this point. Steinhardt v. Steinhardt, 445 So. 2d 352, 356 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1984) (denying relief for unjust enrichment in constructive trust case where plaintiff's father, not plaintiff, was unjustly enriched). "Plaintiff's claim of unjust enrichment fails because Plaintiff did not confer any direct benefit upon Defendants." Nova Info. HAWAII	"Unjust enrichment, as a claim for relief, is not clearly defined in either the Hawai'i Revised Statutes or our jurisprudence. As far as we can tell our best explanation of unjust enrichment has been as follows: . . . it is axiomatic that 'a person who has been unjustly enriched at the expense of another is required to make restitution to the other.'" Durette v. Aloha Plastic Recycling, Inc., 100 P.3d 60, 72 (Haw. 2004) (quoting Small v. MISSISSIPPI	The doctrine of unjust enrichment or recovery in quasi-contract applies to situations where there is no legal contract but where the person sought to be charged is in possession of money or property which in good conscience and justice he should not retain but should deliver to another, the courts imposing a duty to refund the money or the use value of the property to the person to whom in good conscience it sought to belong. Omnibank of Manatee v. United S. Bank , 607 So. 2d 76, 92 (Miss. 1992).	Yes. "Unjust enrichment only applies to situations where there is no legal contract." Powell v. Campbell , 912 So. 2d 978, 982 (Miss. 2005). But see Union Nat'l Life Ins. Co. v. Crosby , 870 So. 2d 1175, 1181 (Miss. 2004) (in dicta, stating that unjust enrichment is available as a remedy for breach of contract).	Yes. "What is important . . . to remember is our law accepts no value condemning pursuit of wealth, so long as it be done within legal parameters. There is nothing inherently unjust about enrichment." Omnibank , 607 So. 2d at 92.	Probably. Redd v. L & A Contracting Co. , 151 So. 2d 205, 209 (Miss. 1963) (finding that unjust enrichment recovery only allowed where services were rendered under the reasonable expectation that they would be paid for by person such to be charged and that defendant knew the services were being provided with that expectation). See also Owens Corning v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. , 868 So. 2d 331 (Miss. 2004) (class action claims, including unjust enrichment, denied where there was no showing of direct injury to plaintiff, barring finding of proximate cause).
MISSOURI	A claim for unjust enrichment has three elements: a benefit conferred by a plaintiff on a defendant; the defendant's appreciation of the fact of the benefit; and the acceptance and retention of the benefit by the defendant in circumstances that would render that retention inequitable. Mays-Maune & Assocs., Inc. v. Werner Bros., Inc. , 139 S.W.3d 201, 205 (Mo. Ct. App. 2004).	No. Webcon Group, Inc. v. S.M. Props., L.P. , 1 S.W.3d 538 (Mo. Ct. App. 1999) (finding it would be unjust for defendants to retain the benefit of plaintiff's work and not pay for it; holding that equitable principles could be invoked in spite of an adequate remedy at law).	"[M]ere receipt of benefits is not enough to prevail in a claim of unjust enrichment when there is no showing that it would be unjust for a party to retain the benefit received." Am. Standard Ins. Co. of Wis. v. Bracht , 103 S.W.3d 281, 292 (Mo. Ct. App. 2003). MONTANA	Unjust enrichment is an equitable doctrine wherein the plaintiff must show some element of misconduct or fault on the part of defendant or that the defendant somehow took advantage of the plaintiff. Brown v. Thornton , 432 P.2d 386, 390 (Mont. 1967).	"The theory of unjust enrichment and restitution is brought into play when no contract between the parties exists and the court implies a contract in law." Maxted v. Barrett , 643 P.2d 1161, 1164 (Mont. 1982).	For a contract to be implied at law on the basis of unjust enrichment the plaintiff must show some element of misconduct or fault of some sort on the part of the defendant, or that he was in some way taken advantage of. See Butler v. Peters , 205 P. 247 (Mont. 1922); 17 C.J.S. Contracts § 6.	Probably not. Valley County v. NEW HAMPSHIRE	The doctrine of unjust enrichment is that one shall not be allowed to profit or enrich himself at the expense of another contrary to equity. While it is said that a defendant is liable if "equity and good conscience" requires, this does not mean that a moral duty meets the demands of equity. There must be some specific legal principle or situation which equity has established or recognized to bring a case within the scope of the doctrine. Am. Univ. v. Am., Inc. v. Coas County , Slip op., No. 04-278-AA, 2006 WL 176653 (D. Or. Jan. 24, 2006).	Yes. The elements of the quasi-contractual claim of unjust enrichment are a benefit conferred, awareness by the recipient that a benefit has been received and, under the circumstances, it would be unjust to allow retention of the benefit without requiring the recipient to pay for it. Summer Oaks Ltd. P'ship v. McGinley , 55 P.3d 1100, 1104 (Or. Ct. App. 2002).	No. However, privity of the contractual type need not exist between the parties. Either express or implied privity will suffice. The equitable principle that one who possesses money which ex equa et bono belongs to another should return it, in the absence of a contract modifying the general liability, implies the promise to return which, in turn, supplies the privity. Smith v. Ribel , 13 P.2d 1078, 1080 (Or. 1932).
PENNSYLVANIA	"Unjust enrichment is a quasi-contractual doctrine based in equity which requires the plaintiff to establish the following: (1) benefits conferred on defendant by plaintiff; (2) appreciation of such benefits by defendant; and (3) acceptance and retention of such benefits under such circumstances that it would be inequitable for defendant to retain the benefit without payment of value." Pennsylvania v. Rhone-Poulenc S.A. , No. 002768OCT, 2003 WL 22250424, at *1 (Pa. Com. Pl. Sept. 26, 2003).	Mixed. Stutzle , 2003 WL 22250424 (finding that unjust enrichment claims belong to direct purchasers, not indirect purchasers). Caskie v. Phila. Rapid Transit Co. , 184 A.17 (1936); Humbird v. Davis , 210 Pa. 311, 59 A.1082 (1904) (finding that the parties must be in privity for recovery for unjust enrichment). But see Gee v. Eberle , 420 A.2d 1050, 1060 (Pa. Super. Ct. 1980) ("[T]he essence of the unjust enrichment doctrine is that there is no direct relationship between the parties.")	Mixed. Stutzle , 2003 WL 22250424, at *2 (to "allow plaintiffs to use a claim for unjust enrichment as a means for collecting damages which are not allowable by Pennsylvania's antitrust law, is not a proper use of the claim and can only lead to mischief"). Powers v. WASHINGTON	Three elements must be established in order to sustain a claim based on unjust enrichment: A benefit conferred upon the defendant by the plaintiff; an appreciation or knowledge by the defendant of the benefit; and the acceptance or retention by the defendant of the benefit under such circumstances as to make it inequitable for the defendant to retain the benefit without the payment of its value. Bailie Commc'ns, Ltd. v. Trend Bus. Sys., Inc. , 810 P.2d 12, 18 (Wash. Ct. App. 1991) (quotation omitted).	Yes. Unjust enrichment is a remedy that prevents a party from retaining a benefit conferred on it in a situation where the party conferring the benefit has no adequate remedy at law. Seattle Prof'l Eng'g Employees Ass'n v. Boeing Co. , 991 P.2d 1126 (Wash. 2000).	Yes. "First, the enrichment of the defendant must be unjust; and second, the plaintiff cannot be a mere volunteer. Recovery in quasi contract is based on the prevention of unjust enrichment." Lynch v. Deaconess Med. Ctr. , 776 P.2d 681, 683 (Wash. 1989). Bailie Commc'ns , 810 P.2d at 18.	No. Mill & Logging Supply Co. v. W. "The West Virginia courts have strayed from the principle that unjust enrichment claims cannot be maintained when there is an express contract in only a few instances." Res-Care, Inc. v. Mountain State Blue Cross & Blue Shield, Inc. , No. Civ. A. 3:03CV-338-S, 2005 WL 2291193 (W.D. Ky. Sept. 19, 2005). If an express contract covers the same subject matter, there can be no recovery under a theory of implied contract. Marshall v. Elmo Greer & Sons, Inc. , 456 S.E.2d 554 (W. Va. 1995).	Probably. Equity will provide relief where "the payment was the result of a mistake for which equity will give relief as defined as some unintentional act, omission or error arising from unconsciousness, ignorance, forgetfulness, imposition or misplaced confidences." Absure, Inc. v. Huffman , 584 S.E.2d 507, 510 (W. Va. 2003).	No. Recovery of damages based upon the theories of quasi contract or unjust enrichment does not necessitate a finding of privity of contract between the parties. Dunlap v. Hinkle , 173 W. JURISDICTION	Elements of an Unjust Enrichment Claim	Absence of a legal remedy or contract required	Additional indicia of unjustness required.	Privity/ direct dealing required	Indirect purchaser claims or class actions limited, rejected, or barred
WISCONSIN	"The pertinent law controlling an unjust enrichment claim requires proof of three elements: (1) a benefit that has been conferred upon the defendant by the plaintiff; (2) appreciation by the defendant of the benefit; and (3) acceptance and retention by the defendant of the benefit, under circumstances such that it would be inequitable to retain the benefit without payment." Staver v. Milwaukee County, 712 N.W.2d 387, 393 (Wis. Ct. App. 2006).	Yes. The doctrine of unjust enrichment applies only in the absence of a contract. Cont'l Cas. Co. v. Wis. Patients Consp. Fund, 473 N.W.2d 584 (Wis. Ct. App. 1991). "Unjust enrichment is not a mechanism for supplementing that which a purchaser perceives as inadequate contractual remedies." Ball v. Sony Elecs. Inc., No. 05-C-307-S, 2005 WL 2406145, at *6 (W.D. Wis. Sept. 28, 2005).	Yes. "The question is whether the complaint alleges facts sufficient to establish, either expressly or by inference, the third requirement: that the benefit was accepted or retained under such circumstances as to make retention of the benefit... without payment therefor, inequitable. It is not enough to establish that a benefit was conferred and retained; the retention must be inequitable." Puttkammer v. Minth, 266 N.W.2d 361, 363 (Wis. 1978).	No. "[P]rivity is not necessary for recovery on a theory of unjust enrichment." Puttkammer, 266 N.W.2d at 366.
WYOMING	"One who seeks relief based on unjust enrichment must prove all of the following four elements: (1) Valuable services were rendered, or materials furnished, (2) to the party to be charged, (3) which services or materials were accepted, used and enjoyed by the party to be charged, and (4) that the services or materials were furnished under such circumstances as would reasonably notify the party to be charged that the plaintiff, in rendering such services or furnishing such materials, expected to be paid by the party to be charged. Without such payment, the party would be unjustly enriched." Nutaine Inv., LLC v. Weller, 81 P.3d 940, 948 (Wyo. 2003).	Yes. "[T]he unjust enrichment remedy is not available when an express contract exists." Sowerwine v. Keith, 997 P.2d 1018, 1021 (Wyo. 2000) (citing 66 Am. Jur. 2d Restitution and Implied Contracts § 6 (1973)).	Yes. "The fourth element of an unjust enrichment claim is actually two elements. Not only must the proponent of the theory prove that the circumstances were such that the other party was reasonably notified that the proponent expected to be paid for services rendered or materials furnished, but the proponent must prove that '[w]ithout such payment, the party would be unjustly enriched.'" Jacoby v. Jacoby, 100 P.3d 852, 856 (Wyo. 2004) (citations omitted).	Yes. Boyce v. Freeman, 39 P.3d 1062, 1066 (Wyo. 2002) (finding that plaintiff must supply a direct benefit to the defendant who must accept the benefit and know that the plaintiff expects compensation for the benefit in order for plaintiffs to state a claim on unjust enrichment).
